Stock Feed

The old happy-go-lucky days are past. The "give-'em-any-old-kind-of-feed" times are happily gone forever.

When attention is paid to diet, and stock studied for individual treatment, and then fed according to needs, men have found that it paid, and paid well.

Cows and horses, hogs, and other stock have all improved in quality, in work, in marketable value, etc., all through proper feeding.

APPROVAL GIVEN TO IMPROVEMENT BY SUPERVISORS

Beach Walk Project Authorized and Hearing Ordered for King Street Plan

One step more was taken towards the actual start of work on two improvement projects last night. A call for bids on the Beach Walk project was authorized and June 27 was set as the date for hearing on King street extension. The report of the city engineer, George M. Collins, on the latter project was received and approved.

Collins estimates the total cost of the work to be done in the district as $33,233.50 and the details are as published yesterday in the Star-Bulletin.

Two of the supervisors, Robert Horner and William Larsen, opposed the laying of the proposed bitulithic and crushed rock on the street. Larsen voted against bitulithic as being too expensive and not durable. He declared it would not last even the five years it is guaranteed for and that the guarantee had been proved worthless by the city's experience with Queen street paving. He also opposed it because of the royalty payment of 25 cents a square yard the contractor pays to the mainland corporation controlling the patent on the process.

Other members of the board pointed out that to postpone the improvement by making further changes in the specifications would probably mean the death of the project. Supervisor Hatch told of laying out the boundaries of the district many years ago when it was a mere stretch of white coral, and added that "nature's concrete" made as good a base as any and he would vote for the improvements as planned.

Beach Walk bids will be opened on the 20th day after the insertion of the first advertisement calling for them, which will be today or tomorrow.

It was announced last night that assessments in the Manoa district amounting to about $11,000 had been collected. As the total will run to about $16,000 if no one pays more than the first installment—and several have paid the whole assessment—it did not look very well for Manoa last night. Delay in collecting the assessments would be a serious thing, several of the supervisors said last night, and might hold the improvement work up indefinitely. The city engineer said that he had had a man at work telephoning to those who had not paid their assessments and hoped they would all be in today.

LECTURER WILL TELL OF CHINA

"China, Her Peoples, Religion and Customs," will be the subject of the lecture tonight at the "Peace Palace," near the Opera house. Francis E. Stafford, the speaker of the evening, has recently come to this city, after a stay of several years in China, and brings with him a large collection of beautifully-colored scenes taken by himself, picturing the interesting life of this greatest of peoples.

In addition to having traveled extensively over all parts of the empire of China, Stafford was for a while connected with the Commercial Press, Limited, in Shanghai, and installed a three-color half-tone plant in this, the largest commercial house in the Orient. The stereopticon lecture will be made the more real and interesting by the singing of songs in the Chinese language, and the speaker will also play one of the unique two-stringed Chinese violins. The meeting will open at 7:30.

O. G. Ritchie, who is to superintend the improvement work in Manoa, is looking for offices in that district. Unless it is held up by difficulties with the property owners in the district, as appears possible today, the work will start within a few weeks.

John Clyde Plankington, manager of the Hilo Electric Light Co., and Miss Elizabeth Nunn Clark, daughter of Mrs. Robert Nunn Clark of New York City, will be united in marriage in New York next Thursday. The couple will return to the islands to live in Hilo after August 15.

LAUGH PRODUCER AT BIJOU WILL LEAVE TONIGHT

Bert Lytell, Evelyn Vaughan and Ethelbert Hales, with the able assistance of the balance of the Lytell-Vaughan players, are distributing laughs at a 60-minute gait at the Bijou theater in "He Comes Up Smiling," which will be offered for the last time tonight. Lytell supplies a majority of the laughs, although Hales, as the retired British army officer with a fondness for the cup that cheers and an abhorrence of water, excepting for the purposes of a bath and to liquidate this auto, about which he is a bug, passes over the footlights a goodly share.

The story is that of a hobo, a young man of good birth and education who shies at work like a balky mule. This is Bert Lytell. The hobo impersonates a young man who has driven to cover the inside workers in the cotton market. He meets one of the victims of his operations together with the daughter of the latter. This is Miss Vaughan. The broker's daughter falls in love with the dressed-up hobo and vice versa. Father sees an opportunity to trim the youthful operator and the daughter is made to give unconscious aid to the plot. But, meantime, the real operator and the hobo have met and the latter outlines the plan that is being "framed up."

Time comes for an exchange of confessions between the hobo and Billy's dad, but not until Billy and the hobo have exchanged declarations of love. The hobo decides to make good for Billy's sake and leaves without bidding the girl good by, promising to return in three months with a fortune and claim her. This he successfully carries out.
